● Naturalpha are a consulting and R&D company in Nutrition and Health, working with the food and pharmaceutical sectors to build an effective research strategy and shorten their product development cycle. Two major events to look forward to this fall:

– the company’s web portal, www.nutrialphaeurope.com, a tool for keeping an ear to the ground in the Nutrition and Health sector, giving access to top-quality information in synoptic form, will be available in English. It will have two quite separate sections: “Science & Technology”, for monitoring and searching for information on scientific and technological aspects of Health and Nutrition, and “Regulatory Affairs”, centered around regulatory changes and issues in Nutrition and Health. NutrialphaEurope will also be offering new functionalities and tools, specifically a regulatory database and ability to personalize information according to the user’s interests.

– creation of a regionally rooted Naturalpha Clinical Nutrition Center (NCNC) as an international center for clinical trials. Located in a hospital in Lille, occupying premises of 250 m², it brings together a team of doctors, nurses, and clinical trial technicians, clinical research associates, and even statisticians. The NCNC should make it possible to take clients through from start to finish in their move to validate their health products.
